Write an Argument Essay

Directions: Read "Should He Get Paid?" Complete the essay kit on page 27.
Then follow the steps below.

STEP 1: DECIDE WHAT YOU THINK

Should college athletes get paid?

Consider what you read in the article, as well as your own viewpoints.
Check the box next to the point of view you will argue in your essay.
Or write your own opinion in the space provided.

☐ Yes! They deserve to get paid.

☐ No! Student athletes aren't pros.

☐

STEP 2: GATHER SUPPORT FOR YOUR OPINION

Look at what you wrote in the "Yes" and "No" columns on page 27. Which points support your opinion?
What other information supports your opinion? List at least three supporting details on the lines below.

Here's an example: If you think college athletes should get paid, one of your supporting details might be: "A 2006 NCAA study found that top-tier college athletes dedicate an average of 37 hours per week to their sport."

1.

3.

STEP 3: ACKNOWLEDGE THE OTHER SIDE

If you think college athletes SHOULD get paid, summarize the strongest arguments of those who disagree. If you think college athletes SHOULD NOT get paid, summarize the main reasons some think that they should.

STEP 4: CRAFT YOUR THESIS (CENTRAL CLAIM)

The thesis is where you tell readers what your essay is going to be about. The thesis should be a clear, strong statement of the opinion you gave in Step 1. The rest of your essay will support this thesis.

Your thesis: _____

STEP 5: WRITE YOUR HOOK

The beginning of your essay is called the hook because it "hooks" your readers' attention. The hook should relate to the topic of your essay, but it can take many forms. It can be:

- 1. An anecdote (a very short story): Describe your relationship with sports. If you play a sport, describe how much work you put into that sport. If you don't play a sport but you love to watch sports, explain why you love to watch sports.
- 2. A surprising fact: Find a fact that will raise your readers' eyebrows. Several surprising facts are included in the article. You can also do some research to find one that is not included in the article.
- 3. A rhetorical question (a question to which you don't expect an answer): Ask your readers a question that reflects your point of view. Here's one way you could structure your question:
"Is it really fair that _____?"
- 4. A quote: Find a thought-provoking quote that relates to the topic of your essay.

Choose one of the ideas above, or use your own idea, and write a hook on the lines provided.

Your hook: _____

Let readers know a little about the issue you will be writing about. This is not your point of view; it's a brief summary of the issue. Finish the summary of the debate over paying college athletes that begins below.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are approximately 20 lines visible. The paper has a slightly textured appearance and is set against a dark background.

On the next page, you'll find guidelines for how to organize your essay.
